

“The work that Five Counties does is incredibly important”

Jackie is a dedicated volunteer at Five Counties Children's Centre. Originally from Omeme, Jackie has strong ties to the Peterborough area. Jackie has been looking for ways to stay active within our community, especially during the pandemic. Prior to the pandemic, she was an avid curling player and coach but has cut back on the time she spends at the rink over the past couple of years. Jackie works at a local insurance company and she and her husband own and operate a three-season resort on Indian River. They have two grown sons and two granddaughters.

Jackie was inspired to get involved with Five Counties for many reasons and has been involved with the Centre in different ways over the years.

As a young child, she used leg braces to help with mobility issues. On another occasion, Jackie's mother, a school trustee, was instrumental in engaging a high school carpentry class to make and send a gift of nesting tables to Five Counties. Jackie is also connected to Five Counties at her workplace, who held an annual fundraising golf tournament prior to the pandemic. Each year the proceeds were split amongst several charities in the Peterborough area with the Centre as the beneficiary on multiple occasions.

“The work that Five Counties does is incredibly important and valuable to help the children they serve enjoy and experience life events to the fullest. With the help of the various programs and services offered through Five Counties, children are able to live enriched, full lives.” says Jackie.

Jackie is a donor, a fundraiser, a volunteer, and an incredible asset in our community. Thank you Jackie for all you do for our kids!
